WRENATHON

SATURDAY 24th JUNE 2023

The Wrenathon Vocal Marathon is a free event that celebrates the joyful, healing and uplifting spirit of singing together in the City churches of Sir Christopher Wren.

Highlights include a specially created site-specific improvisation by Filament Theatre Company, including music lamenting the climate crisis; a new collaboration between poet Adisa and Newham-based youth choir NewYVC exploring forms of resistance and spirituality through song and spoken word; and the performance of a new co-created song in a collaboration between migrant City workers and Sing Tower Hamlets.

All performances are 25 minutes long, allowing 20 minutes for audiences to journey on to their next church.

All performances and venues are relaxed environments. This means there is a relaxed attitude to noise and movement, and people are free to come-and-go as they choose.
